NCFR-AAMFC ANNUAL MEETING

OCTOBER 22-26, 1974
JEFFERSON HOTEL
ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI

The National Council on Family Relations and the American Association of Marriage and Family Counselors will hold a combined Annual Meeting in 1974, and the program, based on the theme, "The Art and Science of Intimacy and Loving," promises to be a highly significant one. Gerhard Neubeck, University of Minnesota, general program chairperson, reports that Sidney Jourard, Author and Professor of Psychology, University of Florida, Marya Mannes, Columnist and Author, Laura Singer-Magdoff, Marriage Counselor and Author, and Sam Magdoff, Dean of the Phoenix School of Design, New York, have accepted invitations to give plenary presentations. In addition, Leland Axelson, Florida State University, NCFR president, and Clark Vincent, Bowman Gray School of Medicine, AAMFC president, will speak at the annual banquet. The chairpersons of the five NCFR Sections are now calling for program participants.

COUNSELING. This year for the first time the American Association of Marriage and Family Counselors will join the NCFR Counseling Section in providing a conjoint conference and annual meeting. This means that the Counseling Section and AAMFC will have a single committee planning the many sessions which will be provided.

The theme for the joint counseling meetings is Intimacy in the Family Life Cycle. All who would like to be involved in the presentation of a program are encouraged to keep this in mind and to focus attention on this topic. Obviously, the topic, Intimacy provides a fairly wide latitude while dealing with a single subject in depth.

In order to provide for variety in the manner of presentation, five areas are proposed. Six different programs will be divided equally among them: a) Prepared papers on special topics, or research projects - 15 minutes limit, three papers each session with ample time for discussion; b) Experiential action programs, half time for lecture, theory or activity session, including active participation, and half time for discussion and group evaluation; c) Panel discussion with two to four individuals presenting separate and complimentary new points about a topic or idea; d) Individual or cooperative presentation about a therapeutic technique of general interest, e.g., behavior modification, psychoanalytic, Gestalt, Rational Emotive, T-A, Family Therapy, etc.; e) "How to" session on the conduct of a private practice in marriage and family counseling, problems related to insurance and other financial matters, group practice, etc. as well as topics related to training and supervision.

In order to provide for most intimate and meaningful interaction, each program time allotment will have several simultaneous meetings. Each one attending will have to make a choice from among several programs. This means that more people can participate in program presentation and the audience will have greater opportunity to interact with the presenters.

This program promises to be the largest Counseling Session ever held, by far. Let's make it the best as well. Send your ideas, recommendations, etc. to Ed Rydman, 12651 Croydon Circle, Dallas, Texas 75230, Counseling Section Chairperson, by April 15.

EDUCATION. Emphasis in the Education Section will be on critical issues facing the family life educator. Some of the presentations will be by invitation. In addition, in keeping with the theme, there will be papers or experiential descriptions of how family life education can be taught through art, music, and literature. As much interaction and involvement as possible will be encouraged. Sandee Latts, Family Studies-Child Development Department, 30 Nicholson Hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455, is Section Chairperson.

FAMILY ACTION. This Section will be interested in papers which deal with Drugs and the Family, the Aged, Day Care, Divorce, Alternative Life Styles, Laws which relate to the Family, including such areas as sex and art, intimacy, pornography, sex, etc.; Welfare Policy, Poverty and Family Assistance, Mental Health, and Population and Family Planning. Papers on applied programs and policies relating to the family are sought. Persons who might have new ideas for presenting particular topics, other than the traditional presentation of papers, i.e. group discussion, etc., are encouraged to submit these plans. Send 200-300 word abstracts by April 15 to Sharon Price-Bonham, Chairperson, Department of Child and Family Development, University of Georgia, Athens, Georgia 30601. She would also appreciate hearing from people interested in chairing sessions.

RESEARCH AND THEORY. Since this is a joint meeting of NCFR and AAMFC, special attention will be given to research and theory related to applied problems, including marital and family intervention. Theoretical papers and research projects illustrating how to bridge the gap between the researcher, theorist and practitioner will be emphasized, although other papers will be seriously considered. Students and practitioners are encouraged to submit papers or write if they are interested in serving as chairpersons or discussants. Abstracts (500 words or more) and preliminary papers should be sent by April 15 to: David H. Olson, Research and Theory Section Chairperson, Family Social Science, 217 North Hall, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101.

In addition to regular meetings, the Section is sponsoring a Pre-Conference Workshop on Theory Development. This Workshop will focus on theory papers that are in the process of development (working papers) rather than completed papers. These papers will be duplicated and circulated to all participants before the workshop. Each session will discuss one paper for 1-1/2 hours. Abstracts of theoretical working papers for this Workshop should be sent to: Darwin Thomas, Family Research Center, Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah 84601.

SPECIAL EMPHASES. This Section will focus on positive values in family life through ethnic and cultural diversity. Robert Staples, Graduate Program in Sociology, University of California, 1373 Third Avenue, San Francisco, California 94143 is Section Chairperson.

ROUND TABLES. Round Table Coffees are planned for Wednesday afternoon, and Round Table Luncheons will be held Friday noon. These sessions will provide an opportunity for persons interested in a particular subject to discuss their ideas with a leader. Contact Norma Newmark, Chairperson, 2876 Jerome Avenue, Bronx, New York 10468, if you wish to lead a Round Table, indicating your area of interest.

POST CONFERENCES.

Rose M. Somerville, California State University, San Diego, will lead a workshop on Family Realities in Fiction and Art, October 26-27. In keeping with the theme of the 1974 NCFR-AAMFC Annual Meeting, The Art and Science of Intimacy and Loving, workshop participants will focus on the many kinds of loving in many kinds of lifestyles which find illumination in stories, poems, novels, plays, and biographies as well as in paintings and sculptures. The workshop will be of interest to educators, researchers, librarians. Enrollment will be limited to thirty. The fee will be $25 and an additional $5 for materials. The workshop will start at 1:00 p.m. on Saturday, October 26 and will end by lunch time on Sunday, October 27. Enrollees will be taken in order of application. Fees are not returnable. Write Dr. Somerville at 1426 Merritt Drive, El Cajon, California 92020.

Harold Minor, Southeast in Family Forum, will conduct a workshop on Human Sexuality. Details will be announced in May.

OTHER CONFERENCE EVENTS.

Meetings for NCFR Affiliated Councils, an employment service, entertainment, film and filmstrip exhibits, a book display, presentations of the Burgess, Osborne, and Student Awards--many opportunities will make this conference an unforgettable one.

Headquarters for the 1974 joint conference of NCFR and AAMFC will be the Jefferson Hotel in the heart of downtown St. Louis. Conveniently located among a number of good restaurants and fine shopping areas, the Jefferson Hotel is within a few blocks of the Mississippi riverfront, the 630-foot Gateway Arch, and Busch Memorial Stadium.

Participants in the 1974 Conference will have an opportunity to become better acquainted with St. Louis, the Gateway to the West.

Arthur McArthur, Child and Family Development Extension Programs, Cooperative Extension Service, University of Missouri-Columbia, Stanley Hall, Columbia, MO 65201, is local arrangements chairperson.

IN MEMORIAM

Nadina Kavinoky, NCFR President in 1950-1951, died in California, November 24, at the age of 85. Dr. Kavinoky was a physician, a pioneer in planned parenthood, a marriage counselor, lecturer, and author. For eighteen years of her career she practiced in Orange County, where she organized the Orange County chapter of the NCFR. Her daughters characterize their mother as an enlightened woman decades before the phenomenon of women's liberation. Her son considered her adventurous, full of surprises, challenged by anything new. Memorials may be sent to the Child Guidance Center of Orange County, Planned Parenthood, or The City of Hope.

* * * * * * * * * * *

Mary Landis died in California, November 9, 1973. She and her husband, Judson, produced numerous texts in the family sociology field. She was a member of the NCFR, the American Sociological Association, the Pacific Sociological Society, and the Population Council of America. In addition to Dr. Landis, she is survived by a daughter and a son. Memorial gifts may be sent to the American Cancer Society or to the Building Fund of the First Presbyterian Church, Berkeley, California.

* * * * * * * * * * *

Doris Lauten, board member of the Greater Greensboro, North Carolina, Family Life Council, died in the fall. The Board of Directors has established a book memorial in Dr. Lauten's memory.

OSBORNE AWARD

The Osborne Award Selection Committee calls your attention to the fact that this Newsletter contains the special form for making nominations for the 1974 Osborne Award. We request the nomination of highly qualified teachers of family relationships at any educational level. Those eligible include public school teachers, university and college teachers, cooperative extension, adult and other community educators involved in teaching family relationships. The 1974 Osborne Award Selection Committee members are: Ned Gaylin, University of Maryland; Sander Latts, University of Minnesota; Maude I. Parker, Supervisor Family Living/Sex Education Programs, New York City Board of Education; Nick Stinnett, Oklahoma State University; and Gladys Phelan, Colorado State University, Chairperson.

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHER EXCHANGE

In the April issue, The Family Coordinator began a new section especially for high school teachers. The purpose of this section is to make possible an exchange among high school teachers of successful teaching techniques and methods. We urge all of you high school teachers to share your good ideas with others by briefly reporting them for publication in the Coordinator. We need your ideas! Send them to: Mary W. Hicks, 213A Sandels, Florida State University, Tallahassee, Florida 32306.

STUDENT COMMITTEE MEMBERS NEEDED

NCFR maintains an active policy of including student members on the policy and decision-making committees of the organization. Students are elected to the Executive Committee and Board of Directors and appointed to the Congress of Affiliated Councils, Publications Committee, Film Committee, Filmstrip Committee, Annual Meeting Program, Task Force on Aging, Public Relations Committee, International Liaison Committee, Membership Committee, and Finance Committee for two year terms of service. If you would be challenged by this opportunity to meet with professionals in the discipline and contribute your ideas to shape the course of NCFR, then consider working with one of these committees.

If selected, your term would begin after the 1974 October Annual Meeting in St. Louis. During your first year you would serve as a "junior" student member, an apprentice for the "senior" member--with full voting privileges--the following year. It is strongly advised that you attend the annual meeting as each of the committees will meet then. They also do their work by mail and phone, reducing the need for much travel. Most important, you can be sure that your input will be appreciated and respected as a working member of the organization.

If you are interested, send your name, committee choice, and a brief resume to the Student Representative to the Executive Committee: Dennis Orthner, Department of Sociology, Florida State University, Tallahassee, Florida 32306.

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

NCFR REPRESENTATIVES TO OTHER ORGANIZATIONS

Catherine Chilman, School of Social Welfare, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, is NCFR's representative to the International Union of Family Organizations.

Sara Taubin, Drexel Institute of Technology, Philadelphia, and Nathan Turner, Marriage Council of Philadelphia, will represent the NCFR at the 78th Annual Meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Science. The Topic will be USA-USSR: Agenda for Communication.

NOW AVAILABLE

1973-74 edition of the National Directory of Graduate Programs and Post-Doctoral Opportunities in Family Studies; National Roster of Ongoing Research in Family Studies. $3.00. 1972 edition is $3.00. Both may be purchased for $5.00.

CHANGES OF ADDRESS

It would be very helpful if members would notify the NCFR office of address changes, preferably in advance of moving. Frequently the office learns of changes of address only when journals are returned; and the new address scribbled on by the post office is not always legible. In addition, the process costs money!

A REMINDER

Membership in NCFR is not a credential and should not be used to imply professional competence in the family life field. While it is entirely proper to refer to NCFR membership in professional and inter-professional circles, we consider it unethical, in offering services to the public or in private practice, to refer to membership in the NCFR as though it were a professional qualification.

MISSOURI: The MCFR Annual Meeting will be held in Columbia, May 3-4, on the theme "Family Styles--Freedom and Responsibility." The program will feature presentations by approximately 50 Missouri professionals, a banquet address by Governor Christopher S. Bond, and a major address by Ronald Cromwell, Director of the Family Study Center, University of Missouri-Kansas City. Members may choose to attend interest groups on Research on the Family in Missouri, Edward Vaughan; Ethics, Values and the Family, Edwin Fritze; The Family, the Child, and the School, Ray Kauber; and Alternate Styles, Freedom and Responsibility, William Erickson. Organization of roundtable presentations is under the direction of P. K. Houdek. President is Carolynne Kieffer, University of Missouri Extension, Hillsboro, Missouri 63050.

NEBRASKA: The Nebraska Council and the Department of Human Development and the Family, University of Nebraska-Lincoln will sponsor a conference March 23 at the Nebraska Center in Lincoln. Theme will be "Strengthening Family Life." Ron Daly, Extension Family Life Specialist, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, will give the keynote address. The Counseling, Education, Family Action, Special Emphases, and Research Sections all plan programs. Barbara Boettcher, Area Youth Specialist, Cooperative Extension, 108 Miller Hall, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Nebraska 68503 is president.

NORTH CAROLINA: Save September 27-28 for the 1974 Annual Conference, which will be held at the Appalachian State University Continuing Education Center, with Lester D. Keasey as local arrangements chairperson. President is Grace Daniel, Chief, Health Education Section, Community Health Division, State Board of Health, Raleigh, North Carolina 27601.

Six local family life councils in the state are affiliated with the North Carolina Council: Alamance County Family Life Council, Charlotte-Mecklenburg Family Life Council, Family Life Council of Greater Greensboro, Inc., Family Life Council of Greater High Point, Choanoke Area Family Life Council, and Watauga County Family Life Council.

GREATER GREENSBORO, NORTH CAROLINA: The second annual workshop for clergy and selected laymen was held in January, to provide leaders with ideas and aids useful in developing their educational programs. This year's program focused on parent-child relationships, with Herbert Zeroff, Director of the Marriage and Family Counseling Institute, Charlotte, as keynote speaker.

Fourteen persons have been trained as co-leader for parent discussion groups, using as their text book, Children: The Challenge by Rudolf Dreikurs, M.D. Groups are currently being organized. In addition, several couples have been trained as leaders of Couples Communication Programs, using the Minnesota Couples Communication Program.

The mass media is being utilized for a series of several programs on the topic of runaways.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN COUNCIL ON FAMILY RELATIONS: This year the Council has held a number of educational programs. On November 9, 1973, Byron Norton, University of Northern Colorado, presented his views on "The Changing Role of the Elementary School Counselor and Its Effect on the Family." On March 1, 1974, Tim Theis, Co-Director of Synergy-7, Greeley, Colorado, spoke on "Premarital Education and Communication" at Colorado State University. Also, RMCFR was one of the sponsoring organizations for CSU's College of Home Economics Annual Consumer Concerns Conference. This year's theme focused on Child and Family Services.

RMCFR's Annual Spring Conference will be held on Saturday, April 20, at Metropolitan State College, Fox Building, 1443 Fox Street, Denver. Its theme focuses on "Strengthening the Family in the 70's: Parent-Child Relationships." D. Bruce Gardner, Chairman, Department of Child Development and Family Relationships, Colorado State University, will speak on "Effective Parenting in the 1970's." There will also be a symposium on child development, and seminars on the following topics: Developing a Positive Self-Concept in Preschoolers, Joys and Frustrations of Childrearing; Alternate Family Life Styles; Family Communications; Adolescent Parenting: Help for the Young; and Drug Use and the Family. W. Arthur Shirey is chairperson of the Conference Planning Committee, and the Department of Sociology and Anthropology, Metropolitan State College is host for the conference. RMCFR president is Gladys K. Phelan, E101 Rockwell Hall, Colorado State University, Ft. Collins, Colorado 80521.

TEXAS: Theme for the Annual Meeting March 28-29 at the Sheraton-San Antonio Motor Inn, San Antonio, is "The Family Moves Into the 21st Century." Stanley Fowler, Texas Tech, will give the keynote address on the theme. W. Clark Elizey, Texas Tech, TCFR president, will be the luncheon speaker, discussing humorous incidents in professional practices in the family life field. In addition, there will be a half dozen group discussions.

TRI-STATE: "Education for Parenthood" is the theme for a March 23 Conference sponsored by the Tri-State Council, the Southeastern District of the New York State Home Economics Association, and the Department of Family and Consumer Studies, Herbert H. Lehman College, at the College. At the morning session, Georgia McMurray, Commissioner, Agency for Child Development, New York City, will speak on "All of Our Children," and W. Stanley Kruger, U. S. Department of HEW, will discuss "Current Issues in Education for Parenthood." This will be followed by a panel discussion of "How Do You Answer All Those People Who Say 'Parenting is Doing What Comes Naturally'?" In the afternoon nine workshops on various aspects of parenting will be offered. Contact Norma Newmark, Tri-State President, at 2876 Jerome Avenue, Bronx, New York 10468.

WESTERN REGIONAL (Arizona, California, Hawaii, and Nevada): "Redefining the Family" is the theme for the Annual Meeting March 14-16 in Claremont, California. Arlene Skolnick, University of California at Berkeley, will deliver the keynote address on "Beyond Utopia: Towards a Reorientation of Family Studies." Charlotte and Howard Clinebell, Claremont School of Theology, will present "Liberating the Family: Changing Roles and Lifestyles," at the banquet. Participants for a forum on "Redefining the Family in Education, Research, Counseling and Family Action" will include Allen Moore, Claremont School of Theology, Cecelia Gray, CSUS, Ray Fowler, AAMFC, and Dean Hoffman, Nevada Indian Health Service. Section meetings and round table luncheons are planned. President is Robert Kelley, 131 Monterrey Drive, Claremont, California 91711.

WISCONSIN: Lucille Phillips, 31 South Henry Street, Madison, Wisconsin 53703 is the newly elected president, and Samuel D. Stellman, Director, Center for Social Service, 323 Lowell Hall, 610 Langton Street, Madison, Wisconsin 53706 is executive secretary. Because of the energy crunch, meetings are planned in several parts of the state, including Milwaukee, River Falls, and Madison.

MINNESOTA COUPLES COMMUNICATION PROGRAM: The Minnesota Couples Communication Program is a structured, experiential developmental program. Its overall goal is to equip couples--married, living together, considering marriage (teenagers to adults)--with communication principles and skills which will enable them to deal with different types of issues as they build their relationship over time. To accomplish this, couples learn frameworks for increasing awareness of how they communicate and specific behavioral skills for choosing alternative ways of communicating. In group, they practice new patterns of effective communications. The Couples Handbook and suggested exercises assist in the transfer of learning from the group context to other situations.

MCCP trains and certifies instructors to conduct couples groups. Instructor training is done in pairs (married or professional teams). After training and certification, certified instructors may conduct couples groups by themselves without a co-instructor.

NEWS RELEASES

THE CASE WESTERN RESERVE UNIVERSITY INSTITUTE ON THE FAMILY AND BUREAUCRATIC SOCIETY is undertaking an in-depth study of personal contracts made by individuals prior to or after establishing a household. The first stage of the project is to determine what are the provisions written into these contracts. The second stage will be to discover how such contracts are developed and the reasons for specific contract provisions. The third stage will be a study of their "legality" including both current and potential influence on family law. The fourth stage will be to examine these contracts in relation to child bearing, child spacing, the socialization of children, and the living arrangements developed by the adults with reference to current policies, programs, and laws which regulate or influence these behaviors.

Persons are invited to assist in this research by providing copies of personal contracts their own, those of colleagues, friends, acquaintances, or relatives. Especially welcome would be an exchange of ideas on this innovative practice which is likely to catalyze changes in state marriage and family laws in the remaining decades of this century. Write to: Marvin B. Sussman, Director, IFBS, Haydn Hall, Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio 44106.

THE CASE WESTERN RESERVE UNIVERSITY INSTITUTE ON THE FAMILY AND THE BUREAUCRATIC SOCIETY has received a quarter-million-dollar research grant from the National Institute of Mental Health, HEW, for a four-year study of the consequences and needs of divorcing husbands, wives, and their children. The study is concerned with the characteristics, behaviors, and stresses of families which remain intact and those which are splitting. To establish whether problems of the divorcing family are uniquely different from those families which remain married, both kinds of families will be studied. The results of the study should provide all those concerned with helping divorcing family members with guidelines for appropriate intervention. The principal investigator is Marvin B. Sussman, Selah Chamberlain Professor of Sociology and Director of the Institute. Gay C. Kitson, Ph.D., research associate at the Institute, is the co-investigator.

SUCCESSFUL MARRIAGE is a new national newsletter "offering practical information to help make your marriage work." Aimed primarily at a lay audience it also contains material of special interest to the professional. Recent issues, for example, have contained reviews of books and cassettes, marriage enrichment groups, and a new feature, SM Bulletin Board, tells what services various agencies and groups provide for their clientele. Subjects recently covered include: how to choose a marriage counselor, renegotiating your marriage, money fights, premenstrual tension, handling anger and how to plan a family vacation without conflict. Each issue also contains a case history dealing with a common marital problem. The six- (sometimes eight) page newsletter is published 10 times a year for $7.50. A free copy is available to readers of this newsletter by writing Successful Marriage, Department NC, Box 1042, Kansas City, Missouri 64141.

THE NATIONAL GENETICS FOUNDATION, A RESOURCE FOR FAMILIES WITH GENETIC DISEASE: Recognizing that hereditary disease can place serious strains on a family, the professional in the area of marriage and family relations will be interested in the National Genetics Foundation, a voluntary health agency which assists patients and families burdened with a genetic disorder.

The Foundation coordinates a Network of Genetic Counseling and Treatment Centers located at 46 medical teaching institutions throughout the United States and Canada which provide diagnosis, treatment, and counseling for genetic disease.

Genetic counseling, which has been defined as the total process of communication relative to the occurrence, or risk of occurrence, of a genetic disorder in a family, is recommended for couples who have had a child or children with a birth malformation or genetic disease and are concerned for future offspring; and for families (or a couple getting married) where there is a history of genetic disease, such as muscular dystrophy, cystic fibrosis, mongolism, Huntington's chorea, or where there is a crippling or handicapping disorder such as blindness or deafness that affects one or more family members.

Recent advances in diagnosis and treatment, and such new techniques as amniocentesis--the withdrawal of a small amount of the fluid surrounding the fetus to permit prenatal diagnosis of certain genetic disorders--have provided new hope and increased the options available for a family with a genetic problem. In any case, counseling permits families to make plans and base important decisions on accurate medical information.

Referrals to the Network of Genetic Counseling and Treatment Centers are arranged through the New York office of the National Genetics Foundation which serves as a clearing house, channeling all requests to the appropriate center. Charges, if any, depend on the center, and no one is turned away for inability to pay. Requests for referral may come directly from the patient or family; from the physician; or from the social worker or professional in agencies concerned with adoption, family relations, family planning, etc. The address of the National Genetics Foundation is 250 West 57th Street, New York, New York 10019. Phone (212) 265-3166.
